

Councillor who made Jo Cox comments: 'If people don't like it they can get stuffed'

Cllr Peacock's letter was in response to the council's chief executive who had called for his resignation.

By

STEWART PATERSON

Email

Published: 14:53 Thursday 26 January 2017

A councillor who posted offensive remarks about murdered MP Jo Cox says he has no intention of resigning whatsoever.

Coun Dominic Peacock was responding to the latest call - this time from East Riding Council chief executive Nigel Pearson - to step down.

0 comments

HAVE YOUR SAY

Cllr Dominic Peacock said he had "no intention" of resigning.

Last month the councillor, who represents Minster and Woodmansey, was found to have breached the council's code of conduct by posting on Facebook that he had "just donated the steam of my p***" to Ms Cox's memorial fund. He also said people who have been complaining should stop "bumping their self-righteous gums." Mr Pearson's letter followed a full council meeting which accepted December's scrutiny committee's recommendations that he be asked to quit.

Cllr Peacock has already received a police caution and been expelled for four years from the Conservative Party.

Disgraced councillor Dominic Peacock said he has "no intention" of resigning.

However the unaffiliated Independent councillor, who represents Minster and Woodmansey ward, wrote back saying he had "absolutely no intention of resigning whatsoever."

He added: "Everyone has bumped their self-righteous gums for long enough."

"I have had overwhelming support from my Ward residents with no end of ordinary people saying to me "don't you dare resign."

"They are the only people I listen to now."

He said he would be "keeping his powder dry" as to whether he would rest and at the next election and said he's doing what he is paid to do as a ward councillor, adding: "If people still don't like it they can get stuffed."

One of his main critics has been Beverley and Holderness Labour Party spokesman George McManus who has described him as an "odious individual" and called on him to resign.

Cllr Peacock said: “George McManus is like a turkey voting for Christmas. If I stood down there would be a by-election and there would only be one winner and that would be UKIP and Labour would be stuffed out of sight.”

He went on: “I apologised straight away (for the remark) and I am not stoking the flames on that.

“It is a closed book, I am not going back there.

“If people still don’t like it they can get stuffed.”

Independent councillor Andy Strangeway said today: “I think the man is delusional. I believe he is bringing the council into disrepute, he has clearly bought the Conservatives into disrepute and he is now bringing our residents into disrepute.”

Promoted Stories

5 Things
Glasses Stores...

GlassesUSA.co

Think You Know Engines?..

HowStuffWorks

Dan
Blocker Kept This..

Definition

Living with an Ostomy:...

Mediaplanet

You Can Finally Invest in...

RealtyShares

Republica n Clint Eastwood..

Majorten

The Story Behind
Your Last..

Ancestry

Which State Has
the...

Bankrate

Carrying a credit card balance?...

NextAdvisor

Sponsored Links by Taboola

Get involved in the discussion and have your say ...

Sign in

1 comment

Sort by:

 cutibacetrtr

  Dislike (2)